Mrs. Coene

I am

I am a very sensitive and understanding girl.
I wonder what will happen to the world as I grow older I hear the harsh echo of the world crying in the distance
I see a withered rose shedding tears of sorrow I want to travel to a far away land where there is peace and everyone is created equal
I am a very sensitive and understanding girl.

I pretend that I have wings and I can fly away from all of my troubles I feel the world closing in on me as I stand alone on a deserted street I touch the tip of the brightest star as I fall from the clouds
I worry that I will die a lonely person I cry for all of the homelessness and suffering in the world
I am a very sensitive and understanding girl.

I understand that I cannot always do everything right

I say that no one should be judged by the color of their skin I dream of one day being able to rule the world
I try to help others in need I hope that someday we will stop taking the lives of others through our violent actions
I am a very sensitive and understanding girl.
